

Building Resilient Lives

Dear Friend,

Stacy and her three children arrived at the Children & Family Advocacy Center after escaping from domestic abuse. Stripped of her dignity and hope, Stacy was living a life filled with uncertainty. Domestic abuse is something no one should ever have to endure, but leaving was only the beginning of her journey.

Before Stacy arrived at the Children & Family Advocacy Center, every day was a struggle, and she constantly worried about her children's well-being.

Thanks to the support from donors like you, Stacy and her children now have a warm and secure place to sleep, nourishing meals to eat, and a supportive environment where they can begin to heal. At the CFAC, Stacy has found not just a place to stay, but also a support system who cares about her and her children, and has the ability to help her navigate her journey to healing. She has been treated with respect, given the tools needed to heal, and surrounded by people who understand that healing is about rebuilding one's life, spirit, and sense of worth.

Stacy's children now have a stable, nurturing environment where they can grow and thrive. They are receiving the care and services they need to overcome the challenges they've faced, and for the first time in a long while, Stacy feels hopeful about their future.

For 35 years, the generosity of the Northwest Arkansas community has kept the doors of the Children & Family Advocacy Center open for women like Stacy, and children who have been affected by trauma, who need us the most. Because of your support, Stacy and her children have been able to receive all the necessary care they need at no cost, allowing them to focus not only on healing but also on new beginnings. This is where we need your help.
